How to frame art prints

A QUICK GUIDE

FRAMING ART PRINTS

Which frame you ultimately choose for your art print depends on your taste and your interior. Some love super sleek frames and others prefer classic frames with gold and frills. That's all up to you!

In this guide I give some tips and advice about what to keep in mind when purchasing a frame.

This manual has been written especially for the art print 'In sight' by Marloes De Vries.

SIZES AND DEFINITIONS

On the right you see what a frame is made out of.

The art print 'In sight' has the following sizes:

- Paper size: 210mm x 217mm
- Image (minus white borders): 189 x 189 mm
- Framing with signature and numbering in the picture: 200 x 210 mm

Because all prints are cut and signed by hand, it is recommended to measure the sizes before you start framing.

PASSE-PARTOUTS

The print is working lovely in a frame of 30 x 30 cm, with a passe-partout with an inner size of 20 x 21 cm. This way you can still see the signature and numbering in the picture (image 1) and you see a small white border around the print in the passe-partout.

Don't want to see a white border and signature? Then choose a passe-partout with an inner size of 189 x 189 mm (image 2).

These frames are mockups and not actual art prints in existing frames.

If you order your frame with the discount at delijstenfabriek.nl I get a small percentage of that sale. So, thank you!

DISCOUNT DELIJSTENFABRIEK.NL

I order almost all my frames at delijstenfabriek.nl.

Usually I choose a wooden frame from the Premium line. Personal taste :) If you want something more exclusive, you can go for the Barth line. The latter are available with museum glass, so that the colors of your print are extra protected.

Get 5% discount by using marloes5 as the discount code at checkout.

My favourite at delijstenfabriek.nl:

Premium blank ongelakt of Premium kersen (both wood), 30 x 30 cm, passe-partout with inner dimensions of 20 x 21 cm (WxH)

They ship to the Netherlands, Belgium and Germany. If you're living somewhere else, I recommend using a local company because they have to ship glass.

TYPE OF GLASS

If you pick a frame from the Premium line of delijstenfabriek.nl, then you can opt for clear float cut glass (museum glass is not possible in this line).

If you prefer museum glass, which protects your painting or print from discoloration, you can choose a frame from the Barth line with Museum Glass AR70.

OTHER OPTIONS

You can find frames of all shapes and sizes. Choose something that suits you and your interior.

Prefer a list that is a bit higher, like the one on the right?

For example, choose a frame of 29.7 x 42 cm (A3).

Please note! The photo on the left is a mockup, so a real frame with passe-partout may look different.

Test first, then buy

Before you order: cut out the sizes of the frame and the passe-partout from paper and place the print in it. This way you know whether the proportions are to your liking.
